

Philadelphia Department of Public Health's Introduction to MRC AND Emergency Medication Dispensing

Saturday, November 19, 2016
The University of the Sciences, McNeil
Science Center Auditorium
Woodland Ave and 43rd St,
Philadelphia

Public Health Hot Topic: Public Health Physician's Worst Nightmare

As emerging infectious diseases have been increasing over past decades with new threats like SARS and Ebola, novel diseases continue to threaten our population. Dr. Steve Alles from the Philadelphia Department of Public Health will discuss what we've learned from novel disease outbreaks, how a new pandemic may unfold, the threats we face, and the role of MRC volunteers at different stages of discovering a new disease.

FREE seminars open to any adult (no medical training necessary)

FREE Continued Education Credits available to nurses, physicians, pharmacists, physician assistants, and social workers

For more information, contact Beau Sanchez, Philadelphia MRC Volunteer Coordinator
(215) 685-6496 or mrc@phila.gov

New Volunteer Orientation Agenda Includes:

- FREE BREAKFAST & LUNCH!
- Public Health Hot Topic: Public Health Physician's worst nightmare!
- MRC Volunteer Roles
- Training in Emergency Medication/Vaccine Exercise
- Point-of-Dispensing (POD) hands-on-exercise

To REGISTER for trainings go to:

https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/NVO_MRC_11_19_16